

Report

Al Hamdu Lillah, Since January till April 2008, The ILF has offered 7 in-depth college level courses on the following subjects:

1. The Fundamentals of Tawhid (Aqidah 101)
2. Biography the Prophet (pbuh): The History and Lessons learned
3. Principles of Jurisprudence (Usul-UI-Fiqh 101)
4. Understanding the Quran: Process and Methodology (QUR 101)
5. Hadith Understanding and Memorization (HAD 102): A complete study of the forty Hadith by Imam An-nawawi (two three-day sessions).
6. Fiqh of Family (FIQ-102).
7. Introduction to Sunnah: History, Development, Recording, Proof-values, Texts and Imams.
8. Fiqh of worship: History, obligations, voluntary acts, rewards, spiritual benefits and contemporary issues related to the main pillars of Islam which are Salat, Zakat, Hajj and Fasting (FIQ-202).
9. Mustalah of Hadith (Hadith Terminology HAD-202)
10. Aqidah: Principles of Faith (Aqidah 202).

Each of these courses offered by ILF is equivalent to three credit courses in colleges and Universities with respect to time of instruction, student-instructor contact time and vigor. Our methods of instruction include the use of all possible multi-media techniques including power point, audiovisual flashes, video tapes and solid instruction. In addition to authentic textbooks, handout is provided to students. The subject's focus includes both traditional authentic Islamic knowledge as well as contemporary applications. These courses represent approximately 70% of the course load offered by any reputable Islamic university in the Muslim world in a given year.

Furthermore, ILF offered three workshops on Family issues. The titles for these workshops are:

1. Muslim Families in the U.S.: Challenges and Opportunities
2. Parenting
3. Communication within Family and the Resolution of Conflict

Dr. Saira Sayeed, Ph.D. in communication presented in the last workshop. Her presentation received high praises and compliments in terms of its practicality and realism.

More than 100 students and participants benefited from these courses and workshops. Click on testimonials to find out what other students have said about ILF courses. Our student body includes High school and college students as well as extremely accomplished professionals.

Come and join us in the next ones.